IRELAND GIVES FACTS IN CASE

ARCHBISHOP TELLS WHY FAIRBANKS DID NOT MEET POPE.

REAL REASON APPARENT

Former Vice President Gave Address Before Roman Methodist Society.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 8.—Archbishop Ireland, in an interview today, discusses the recent incident in Rome when former Vice-President Fairbanks was refused an audience with the Pope.

Archbishop Ireland says it was not because of his Methodism or his attitude toward the Methodist church, but because he delivered a public address before the Methodist association at Rome. "This organization," Ireland says, "has in its proceedings strongly opposed the Pope and the Catholic church."

The speaking before that organization, the archbishop holds, would be considered by the Romans as an approval of the Methodist association's Methodist method by the American people.

Ireland speaks in the highest terms of other Protestant churches in Rome which he says mind their own business and really aid Americans.

Neither does he attack the entire Methodist church, he avers, but only the Methodist association and its methods in Rome.

TRACK FOREMAN WAS QUITE BADLY HURT

Charles Hofert, Employed by C. & N. W. Ry., Had Face Cut and Feet Bruised by Fall from Handcar.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Charles Hofert, section foreman employed by the Chicago and North Western Railroad, was badly cut about the face and both ankles bruised by falling from a handcar on his return from work last evening. The accident occurred near the Milwaukee cut about six o'clock last evening. Hofert and his crew were coming to the city on a handcar. In attempting to stop the car quickly, according to one version of the story, he placed a broom in the path of one of the wheels. The broom caught between the ears and the rail with sufficient force to throw him forcibly to the ground and his face was badly cut, his forehead being gashed to the bone. His feet lay across the rail and the car passed over them and some distance farther. The men who were on the car jumped off and assisted Mr. Hofert to his feet and he being scarcely able to walk, helped him to the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. B. Hofert, on North First street. He was taken to his own home this afternoon.

RUNESTONE CAUSES MUCH DISCUSSION

Merry Scrap Over Authenticity of So-Called Viking Proof.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 8.—In the midst of a merry scrap over the genuineness of the Kensington runestone, which purports to show that Norsemen penetrated to Minnesota in the year 1362, it has been decided that President Van Slye of the university shall examine the famous relic and decide upon its age and character from the standpoint of one of the country's greatest geologists.

Carefully boxed and watched during shipment, the queer find is expected to be warmly defended tonight by Udalmar Reed Holand of Ephraim, Wis., in a lecture under the auspices of the Wisconsin State Horticultural society. Mr. Holand for several years has been custodian of the stone and has spent most of his time digging up facts to support his claim.

Foremost among those who question the "validity" of the stone is Prof. Birnbaum B. Anderson, former professor of Scandinavian languages in the university, editor of "America" and widely known as the author of a historical work which goes to prove the discovery of America prior to Columbus by Leif Ericson. In a communication published locally last evening, Prof. Anderson arraigned Holand and denounced the stone as a fraud, declaring the whole affair should be placed "on the same scrap pile with Dr. Cook's north pole story and the Cardiff glam." Prof. Anderson cited the fact that runestones were no longer used—except for playgrounds—in Scandinavia, after the year 1400, when ink and parchment accompanied the introduction of Christianity. To this Mr. Holand replied that the entire "Scandinavian law," long "document" of the year 1200, was written in runes.

Altogether, the stone itself is almost lost in the bitterness of the controversy between Prof. Anderson and Mr. Holand. The latter is a graduate of the university and a protege of Prof. Olson, head of the Scandinavian department of the university. Independently, Prof. Olson and Prof. Anderson are brothers-in-law, but they have not been on friendly terms for years. Mr. Holand, during his stay here, is a guest of Prof. Olson.

In an interview given by Mr. Holand today, he took up sharply the arguments against the stone's authenticity offered by Prof. Anderson and answered them, and the controversy over the ancient relic is being received with heightened interest in this city.

President Van Slye's verdict on the geological properties of the stone is eagerly awaited. Besides naming the probable age of the tablet, Dr. Van Slye is expected to give an opinion as to the possibility of the inscriptions lasting so long a time.

CHINESE NEW YEAR TO BEGIN TONIGHT

"Gong He Eat Toy" Will Be the Greeting Among Almond-Eyed Denizens Of New York.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Feb. 8.—The Chinese new year begins tonight and for two weeks at least the picturesque and densely populated district bounded by Park, Mott and Duane streets will be the scene of numerous social festivities among the almond-eyed denizens. For the time being business will be practically suspended and even the rival and warlike tongs will observe a temporary truce. In every oriental household the festive hour will remain spread, and all callers will be made welcome. The Chinamen will visit each other and whenever they meet they will salute with the remark, "Gong He Eat Toy," meaning "a happy new year."

Chinatown has made elaborate preparations for ushering in the holiday at midnight. The business places will close with decorations of the favorite color of the celestials, the red, and the doors will be closed. Tales of red mayflies have been prepared to appear on the gold. Near the midnight hour incense will be burned in the joss houses and in the dwellings to drive away any stray evil spirit that may be lurking about the premises. After the evil ones have taken flight more incense is burned as a welcome to the coming season. For there were to be met at every turn men who are experts in every branch of gambling. They came from every part of the country to attend the annual convention of the National Chinese Association and the meetings of several affiliated organizations, including the Chinese Machinery and Supplies Association and the National Canned Goods and Dried Fruit Packers' association. The joint gathering will continue its session four days, during which time there will be addresses and discussions in which many prominent specialists of the trade will take part.

CHICAGO "CUBS" MAY COME HERE TO PLAY

Manager of East Basketball Aggregation Which Played Here Has Written for Another Game.

Janesville basketball enthusiasts who witnessed the game between the Y. M. C. A. basketball five and the Chicago "Cubs" team from the Central association, may be given a chance to see that superior aggregation in play again. The manager of the team has written to Physical Director Wheeler of the Y. M. C. A. for a game here again, and it is possible that Mr. Wheeler may secure an engagement with them.

Next Saturday in this city the Intermediate team is to play a five from the Rockford Boys' club. It is a return game and the Intermediates are much interested in it. Janeville's know is different from that of the former game, when the Forest City aggregation were overwhelmingly defeated, and an entirely new set of men will play. The reason for the change in lineup is due to the fact that most of the members of the Intermediate first team are now playing with the high school and they cannot under the rules governing high school contests, play with two teams.

In the basketball schedule of the "A" Juniors yesterday afternoon, the Giants defeated the Tigers, 5 to 4, and the Plante beat the Cubs, 4 to 1. Field basketball was made by Beard, 2; Craig, 1; Kyle, 1; Dow, 1; Dixon, 1; Frazis, 1; Dixon, Leslie, and Sheldon, 1 each.

The Business Men's teams play this evening at the regular close hour—Lovejoy against Monroe, and Wilecox versus Illinois.

The Intermediate gymnasium class will not meet tonight but tomorrow night on account of the session of the Twilight club.

ULTRA-SWELL SET ATE TAINTED MEAT

WHITE-HOUSE STEWARD USES
BEEF THAT WAS RIPE.

READY TO FALL TO PIECES

Washington Food Inspector Testifies
That Black and Unwholesome Food
Is Preferred in Fashionable Markets—People Eat It by Choice.

Washington, Feb. 8.—During the occupancy of the White House by President Roosevelt unwholesome beef, almost ready to fall to pieces, was served by preference.

Also there are numerous families in the ultra-swell set in the national capital who prefer tainted beef to the genuine fresh article.

Dealers are compelled to keep the passe stuff on hand to meet the demand, and it has happened that a side of beef about to be destroyed by order of an inspector was snatched from his hands by a dealer to fill the order of a fashionable family brought in by a liveried coachman.

These amazing facts were sworn to by Food Inspector Dodge before the Moore special committee from the house which is trying to find out why it costs so much to live in Washington.

Members Show Their Disgust.

Members of the committee made no effort to conceal their disgust at the revelations. Representative Johnson of Kentucky characterized it as "the gratifying of canine appetites." Inspector Dodge's testimony was halted at the most interesting period by the adjournment of the committee. His examination will be resumed, when it is hoped some explanation for the curiosities of the rich and mighty will be forthcoming.

What was established, however, is this, that not only is black and unwholesome food, well on the way to decomposition, sold in Washington, but there is a demand for it in the fashionable markets and people eat it by choice.

Ready to Fall to Pieces.

Inspector Dodge told how, "when Roosevelt was president the steward at the White House used to buy a quarter of beef and hang it up. Then every morning he would go around and stick his finger in here and there to see if it was getting nice and ripe and tender."

And it was not used, the inspector said, "until it was ready to fall to pieces."

Following his remark about canine appetites, Representative Johnson wanted to know if the market in question kept this "putrid" meat in the same box with beef intended for "civilized people." Inspector Dodge answered in the affirmative.

ZINC FIRM NEAR BANKRUPTCY.

Cockerill Smelting Company of Joplin Is in Trouble.

Joplin, Mo., Feb. 8.—The A. B. Cockerill Smelting Company, one of the largest zinc smelting concerns in the United States, is on the verge of bankruptcy. Confirmation of a rumor to this effect was made by A. B. Cockerill of Novato, Mo., president of the company.

The National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis and George E. Nicholson of Kansas City, who hold bonds issued by the company to the extent of $1,200,000, have been in charge of the company's properties for several days. According to Mr. Cockerill, formal arrangement will be made today.

The company owns smelters in Altoona, Bruce, Gas City, Lathrop and Pittsburgh, Kan., and in Nevada, Mo. Of these smelters those at Altoona and Gas City alone are now in operation.

Failure to recover from the effects of the panic of 1907, together with the present economic situation, are given as reasons for the failure by Mr. Cockerill.

HARD TO DROP.
But Many Drop It.

A young Calif. wife talks about coffee:

"It was hard to drop Postum, and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a nervous wreck and of course that means all kinds of ills."

"At first I thought bicycle riding caused it and I give it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused the trouble for I was very fond of it. At that time a friend came to live with us and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his coffee any more, I asked him the reason. He replied, 'I have not had a headache since I left off drinking coffee, some months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. I don't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway, after drinking Postum!'"

"I did nothing but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five months ago, and we have drank no coffee since, except on two occasions when we had company and the result each time was that my husband could not sleep, lay awake and tossed till talked half the night. We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so he returned to Postum, convinced that coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled no more by insomnia."

"I, myself, have gained 8 pounds in weight, and my nerves have come to quiver. It seems so easy now to quit coffee that caused our aches and blues and take up Postum."

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 8.—Thos. Col. Thomas H. Swope took a patent medicine containing tonic of iron, quinine and strychnine up to within a few days of his death developed at the inquest over his body in Independence, Mo.

This testimony was given by Mrs. Pearl Keller, Col. Swope's nurse. Mrs. Keller cared for Col. Swope from September 12 until the day of his death. She testified that the millionaire took the mixture daily in addition to the treatment given him by Dr. B. C. Hyde.

Previously, in a deposition, S. W. Spangler, office partner of Col. Swope, testified that Col. Swope at his office took large doses daily of a patent medicine containing strychnine.

Physicians say the fact of Col. Swope having taken much of this medicine would explain the presence of poison in his vital organs.

Numerous Deaths and Much Suffering Experienced in New York State.

New York, Feb. 8.—The coldest February upon the section of which New York is the center, is interrupting transportation facilities, anchors, impelling ships at sea, and causing numerous deaths and fearful suffering. The mercury reached two degrees above zero in New York city. It remained at this point for nearly five hours, the low temperature being accompanied by a bitter gale that reached 40 miles an hour at 11° height. Only once during the last ten years, and four times during the last thirty-five, has this cold been exceeded.

The cold wave was most severe throughout the St. Lawrence valley, and reached from the Adirondacks to the middle west.

HEYBURN'S ORATORY IS WASTED

Senator Talks Against Bill, But Casts Only Negative Vote.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Senator Heyburn of Wyoming had an experience in the senate that has perhaps never been equaled in the history of the country. He spoke for an hour with both ardor and eloquence against a bill, demanding the yeas and nays on it to "make a record," and then cast the only vote against it while 61 senators voted in record.

The bill provided that at the next general encampment of the Confederate veterans to be held at Mobile the government shall lend to the veterans certain tents, tent pins, saddles and bridles, they to give a bond for the safe return of the property.

Miss Lola Huffman of Brodhead visited Mrs. As Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail, free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THAT CORPORATION TAX

From all parts of the country come protests in three of business against the Corporation tax, as it has been set forth by the national government. Editorials have been written on the question by many of the leading newspapers of the country and the following from the Chicago Record-Herald appears to sum the matter up in the best shape. It is a formal protest against the law which was passed by the last congressional session before the present and every indication points to the fact that it is most obnoxious to the public at large when they come to study out its requirements:

"Even if the supreme court advances the corporation tax enact now before it, no decision can be reached between now and the date for the filing of the elaborate statements as to the amount of business against the tax. It could make things hum at my rate if he told half the truth about things he knows about our Senator.

It is necessary to avoid the fallacy of supposing that increase in consumption per capita is unaffected by growth in population. The voluntary substitution of other grains, rye for instance, would call for attention also in any exhaustive treatment of this deeply interesting problem.

Appointing a congressional committee to spend months in investigating the obvious only to report that food prices are "rather" high, is giving us a stone. In reply to an appeal for bread, immediate and real tariff revision is the more direct relief.

There is going to be a grand antiaxon rally in Janesville this coming Sunday and perhaps the question of voting for or against license may be brought up for discussion. Such a thing might happen even in Janesville.

As Halley's comet is said to be a million times as big as the earth it is a wonder that some of our masters have not thought it wise to annex it.

They say that the safety of Paris was not diminished even though the flood did cover most of the boulevards and famous drinking places of the Parisian capital.

Roseland has produced a new play in Paris called the "Chanticleer," but it is understood that nothing is said in it about the high price of eggs or why chickens cross the road.

It is said that the absence of fenders to be worn by pedestrians is remarked at by those who have attended the auto show in Chicago this year.

Roosevelt will not care very much whether that South Pole is found or not so long as he gets some more white rhinoceros over in Africa.

Now that gold and diamonds have been found in Liberia there will be a rush of nations who will seek to act as unobtrusive advisors.

Automobiles have come into their own and we seldom hear them called "horseless carriages" any longer. They are now the motor car or auto.

New Jersey bonds 36,000,000 gold storage eggs. If the claim is substantiated the world's financial center may again move westward.

Food products are not nearly as high in Canada as they are here. Why not find the cause?

And not a flying machine route was established in Paris during all its trouble.

Only the tax collector insists that we are worth more than we claim.

"And, in view of the agitation throughout the country against the dangerous and indefensible publicity features, would not a brutal friend advise a little message from President Taft to congress recommending a change in the law covering the date of its taking effect? Would not six months' postponement of that date be safe, proper and expedient?"

IMPORTS STILL RISING
Apparently the tide of imports of commodities into the United States is still rising. Returns from the port of New York of merchandise admitted during January, 1910, had a total value of nearly $80,000,000, compared with $63,000,000 in January, 1909, and with $53,000,000 in 1908.

A significant feature of these returns is a marked increase in the importation of precious stones and automobiles. These are both luxuries, and they seem to indicate that the purchasing power of the trade and of consumers is not lessening, even when the protest against the high cost of living takes more definite form on the part of those who feel the necessity for economizing in necessities.

These returns are for the port of New York alone, which handles not far from two-thirds of the country's total imports. The probability, therefore, is that the proportion will hold good for the entire country. Evidently the higher tariff on luxuries has not checked foreign imports of those classes. This is also the reason when the materials of manufacture for a good part of the coming year are being accumulated from foreign sources. The spring trade in articles of apparel and personal luxury is also represented.

Meanwhile, our staple exports are still declining, especially in the case of cotton, and to a lesser extent, cereals also. It will, therefore, be interesting to see how the balance of trade statement stands when both sides of the account are finally footed up. We shall certainly come out with a balance in our favor, but the margin for the initial month of the year may be narrow.

It is said that the democrats are anxious to have that examination of the books of the state fair in hopes of finding some political thunder. It would only net a roosther, as it is said that both McKernan and True are now democrats. Anyway, someone is afraid to have that investigation take place anyway.

In looking around for a candidate for the United States Senate to run against La Follette, why does not someone suggest Judge Lovell Bancroft? He could make things hum at my rate if he told half the truth about things he knows about our Senator.

It is necessary to avoid the fallacy of supposing that increase in consumption per capita is unaffected by growth in population. The voluntary substitution of other grains, rye for instance, would call for attention also in any exhaustive treatment of this deeply interesting problem.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HER CASTLES IN SPAIN.

Kitty Weeks, eighteen and pretty, wanted to be an actress.

Kitty lived in Oklahoma and had acted in high school plays, and when "The Power of Love" company came to her town she was engaged as leading lady at $25 a week, of which she never drew over $8—"on account of the rain."

At Joplin, Mo., the company was stranded. The manager and the comedian scraped up $10 and sent Kitty to Chicago.

Arrived there, she could find nothing better to do than to scrub floors at the Pacific mission, which was quite a fall from leading lady.

At last reports she was awaiting a summons from her fiance in Oklahoma.

These were the materials of which she built her castle in Spain:

First, to be an actress like Mrs. Fiske.

Second, to have $1,000,000 in diamonds.

Third, to win the admiration of the artistic world by her own efforts.

Fourth, to show her parents that they were wrong.

Poor little lassie!

Her castle fell a-stumbling about her pretty ears. Weeping on the shoulder of the matron, she changed her ideals this way:

She wanted to go back to mother and the little white bedroom with the gable window; to beg father's pardon for disregarding his advice; to get a good home dinner like mother used to make; to marry her fiance instead of being "wedded to art."

"Oh, I've had my lesson!" said the girl. "I thought life in Oklahoma was dreary. It was heaven. When I get back home, if I ever do, I shall be the homeliest homely body you ever heard of. I don't want to play in 'East Lynne' or in any other play that used to appeal to me."

All of us who have come to years of discretion have known the experience of Kitty Weeks.

Life to the young looks like a glittering pageantry of beauty as seen through the ever shifting kaleidoscope of early dreams and aspirations.

Alas, that dreams are only dreams. That fancy cannot give a lasting beauty to those forms that scarce a moment live!

As the years come and go the pageant fades; the benificent mirage rises; the swift flowing rivers of fancy lose their ripples in the sands of life's desert places. Our castles in Spain have fallen to the ground. Disillusion comes. We are up against reality:

MISS HESSLER MISS SURFT.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—Pretty Mrs. Dorothy Hessler, who was the innocent cause of so much publicity and trouble in the navy at Charleston yard, and Miss Virginia Surft form the two principal witnesses in the Paymaster George P. Auld court martial proceedings.

As everybody should know now, Paymaster Auld and his friend, Dr. Asey H. Robnett, assistant surgeon in the navy, are accused of conduct unbecoming officers and gentlemen at a dance at the navy yard December 11, 1909. Then a very forcible invitation to leave the ballroom was given to Dr. Edward H. Cowles, brother of Rear Admiral Cowles, who is Theodore Roosevelt's brother-in-law. Dr. Cowles' presence at the dance.

Always Some Gain in Loss.
As there is no worldly gain without some loss, so there is no worldly loss without some gain. If thou hast lost thy wealth, thou hast lost some trouble with it; if thou art degraded from thy honor, thou art likewise freed from the stroke of envy; if sickness hath blotted thy beauty, it hath delivered thee from pride. Set the allowance against the loss and thou shalt find no loss great; he loses little or nothing that reserves himself.

Always Some Gain in Loss.
The phrase, "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," was first applied to George Washington by Henry Lee of Virginia in a eulogy delivered in the house of representatives, December 26, 1779. He had previously introduced a resolution that a committee be appointed to consider the most suitable manner of paying honor to the first president of the United States.

Warfare of the Past.
Hamilcar went from Carthage and landed near Paterno. He had a fleet of 2,000 ships and 3,000 small vessels and a land force of 300,000 men. At the battle in which he was defeated, 150,000 were slain.

It is in the buying end of a store that a merchant proves his ability. If goods are bought right they can be sold right. In a store of this nature most of the lines handled are goods that we are able to buy right, and can usually sell them for less than elsewhere. Every item in our Gas Fixture department is a great big value. We note a few below and they are representative of every department in the store.

Rumored That Plant Will Be Installed In Janesville But Particulars Are Lacking.

GEORGE McKEY IS HOME FROM VISIT IN VIRGINIA

is Much Impressed With Plantation Life and Hospitality of People—Temperatures Same As Here Today.

George McKey returned last evening from a visit with his sister who lives on the "Horn Quarter" plantation about seventeen miles from Richmond, Virginia. The temperature there during the past few weeks has varied from 30 above zero—the same as registered by Janesville thermometers today—and there has been considerable snow for the first time in a generation. The place where he visited was the scene of weekly fox hunts by the guests of Mr. Levy, who is associated with Pierpont Morgan, at the old Thomas Jefferson homestead at Monticello. Mr. McKey shot partridges but was unable to bag a wild turkey. He says that the country is about to take a new lease of life and that many wealthy people are moving in to make their homes there. Mr. Marshall and Prof. Ely of Madison are "landscape gardening" a tract of 500 acres near Charlottesville which will be sold in small parcels to retired professors, the idea being to form a model community of congenial spirits in that locality.

MEN PROMINENT IN BOWLING CIRCLES, WHO WILL BE ON HAND FOR THIS YEAR'S TOURNAMENT.

Detroit, Mich.—Among the hundreds of men prominent in the bowling circles of the country, a few have been boasting the game with all their energy and have made this year's meet an assured success.

Judge Howard of Chicago is lining up strong teams to represent the Windy City. John L. Larson of Duluth, Minn., is one of the strong individual contestants. He is bringing some strong teams with him also. Two men who have made the A. B. C. tournament in Detroit a possibility are J. R. Hayes and C. H. De Witt. Hayes is well known to the sporting fraternity of the country. De Witt is a bowler of ten years experience and always a "booster."

From the south comes Dan P. Haager of Louisville, who has never missed an A. B. C. tournament. He will have charge of the special train from Falls City to Detroit. Michigan is to have many teams at Detroit, and among these Lansing will be especially strong. Ward Gillett and Charles Gillett are rounding their teams into shape and hope to carry off some of the honors.

Altogether this year's tournament is expected to eclipse any previous one, both in number and enthusiasm.

FIRST PICTURE OF THE $100,000,000 BABY.

Washington, D. C.—The only $100,000,000 baby in the world so far known is the five-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McLean. What the future holds for the fortune will do with the money is of course the most interesting speculation. He might easily buy government and city bonds paying 3 per cent and have an income of $2,000,000 a year for spending money. This income would be more than enough to build a Panama canal every two years. If he wanted to give away a part of his money he would have enough for $1,000 apiece for every man, woman and child in the United States and still have about $20,000,000 left.

This boy has received many costly and beautiful presents, but among those none surpasses the gold royal crib presented by the late King Leopold of Belgium.

WILL ROCKFORD BE "DRY" AFTER NEXT ELECTION?

have shown that "prohibition does not prohibit," it would be just as well to have the money now spent in Freeport, Beloit and Janesville, remain at home. Local optionists have refuted this argument by the statement, that the amount now spent in other cities, or even spent in shipping the wet stuff into town, is far less than what would be drawn from the municipality should the saloons be opened and the money returned into the treasuries of the brewers and distillers.

It can not be denied, however, and the fact is acknowledged in one of the leading papers, that the local option law has been laxly enforced. Although "spotters" were busy during the first year and many convictions for selling liquor were secured, it is generally believed that whisky is still being sold inside the city limits but not nearly in such quantities as there was two years ago, nor is it easy for minors to secure intoxicants. Shipments from outside, however, are very heavy and the Saturday night excursions of delivery wagons, variously labeled, "Express No. 68," etc., are a common sight.

Neither can it be disputed that the weekly flaggs from the Forest City to Freeport and Beloit of the thirsty draw many away from home and mother. One trip on the "drunk" car from Beloit on Saturday night will convince the most skeptical that there are still a large number in Rockford who desire a wet town with all their soul. Brawls are frequent as are the still more disgusting evidences of drunkenness. Most of the passengers of the "drunk" cars are carrying capacity loads, both under their belts and in bags. The sentiment expressed by those passengers is strong but nevertheless, they form but a small percentage of the voters and their own actions belittle their arguments.

To an unprejudiced observer the following classes seem to be lined up in the coming campaign. On the side of the wets are those who hold that the abolition of the saloon is an abrogation of personal liberty, those thirsty men who object to taking a journey whenever they want a drink or even going to the trouble of ordering it sent to their homes and those who will be directly benefited in a material way, saloon-keepers, bartenders, bar men, bankers, landlords and others who dispose of their products to the saloon.

On the dry side are those who believe the saloon to be an evil influence, ardent church members and members of temperance societies, nearly all the merchants and business men, manufacturers, bankers, farmers, druggists, especially those who sell liquor under prescription, and a large majority of those working men who would not object to the saloon and who take a drink once in a while, but who do not wish to allow the temptation of a wet town to menace their children. Last but not least is the veiled but powerful influence of the women who cannot vote but who, nevertheless, can influence voters.

Taken all in all, the indications are that Rockford will remain a leading exponent of the local option movement.

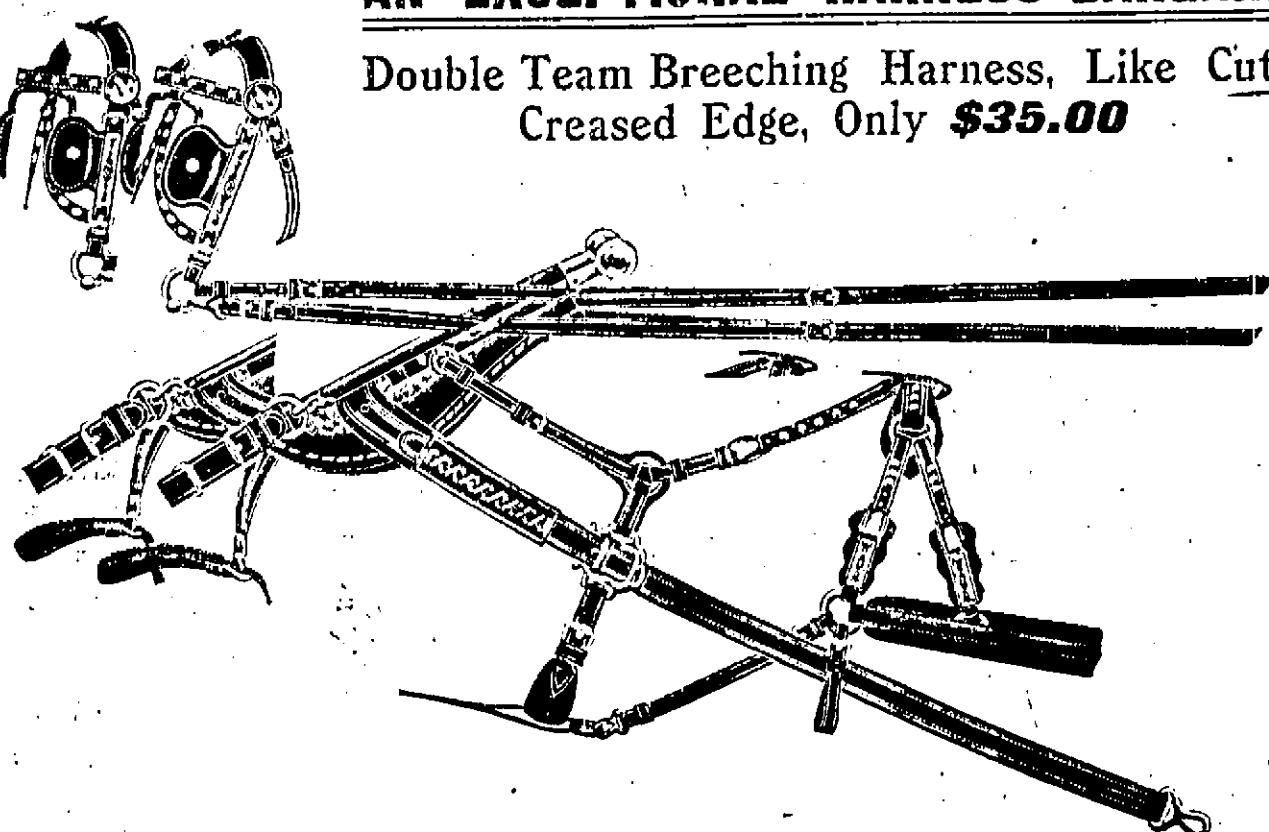

After Washington's Laurels,
"I met an honest boy this morning," said a man who is fond of children. "He was a little round-faced, blue-eyed chap with a stack of books under his arm going to school as fast as his feet would carry him. 'Do you like to go to school, lad?' I asked him. 'No, th-th,' he stammered, giving me one brief, honest look and hurrying on past. Most children would have said yes, to make a hit with you, but this boy was not that kind."

Annoying to the Sick.
Nothing is more annoying to a sick person than to be discussed in his presence by nurses or visitors. It is not extremely favorable, his condition should never be mentioned in his hearing. All questions between the nurses as to when the medicine was given, how much stimulant was last administered, and so on, should be settled out of hearing of the invalid.

I Want a Last Year's Cloak

We have women who come to us and say that they want a last year's cloak. It seems odd, doesn't it? Of course they want to buy it low. Such customers figure that they can get a carried over garment at a very low price but get a grade of material that would be in a garment costing five or six times as much if the very latest style. They buy the left-over garment with the intention of making it over, and that's the whole secret.

We have on our racks about 95 cloaks for women and misses—in black and all colors, and a good range of sizes. These cloaks range in price $12.00 to $40.00. To turn them into money to make room for the new spring arrivals we will shoulder a substantial loss. We will put them in two lots—

Lot 1, Choice for $3.00
Lot 2, Choice for $5.00

If you have a ready-to-wear want, the figures we are making on Suits, Dresses, Coats, Furs will surely interest you.

A CLOSE SHAVE

Many of Them Happening Every Day

But Soon Forgotten.

Close shaves would be of more frequent occurrence but for the tender faces of many men, which will not permit of shaving often. Therefore, nothing has been said in these columns about passing, and now at discovery, in company with the use of a straight razor, the baldness and unshaven have been confined almost exclusively to the remarkable properties of an electric cut. It stops the bleeding at once and cuts the hair to a few hairs. It is the only article possessing real antiseptic and curative value that has ever been exploited for this purpose, and will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet article can do. The use of an electric shaver is one of the minor uses, such as for puppies, the complexion, etc., shavers will do it a revolution, as it does for abhorrent, disgusting and severe scrappings what we call "all the time." WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"The inner side of every cloud is bright and shining.

I therefore turn my clouds about,

And always wear them inside out.

—Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler.

FRIEND of mine, a very successful poultry raiser, says that the most important feature in connection with the business is to have the yards where the birds range on the sunny side of a sandy slope.

Most of us at some time have had experience trying to raise plants where there was no sun. They might, by careful attention, exhibit, but they could not flourish.

Sun is an essential to the best development of our lives as it is to birds or plants. A business friend of mine divides all people into two classes—sheep and wolves. My division is just an sweeping—optimistic and pessimistic. The optimist lives on the sunny slope—the pessimist in the shadow. Both have a right to live where they choose and both are correct in their view of life, and it is optional with us all which view we will take.

There is a lady I know who never leaves the house when there is a cloud in the sky without her umbrella and rubber. To be sure she is never caught unprepared, but think of the trouble of always carrying that umbrella.

The optimistic person who always thinks that the clouds are going to clear up instead of grow bigger, and accordingly usually leaves her umbrella at home, may get caught occasionally, but I think on the whole she has the best of it.

I stopped to buy a paper from a little newsboy one bitterly cold morning. He hid in a pair of gloves very much the worse for wear and I suggested that his fingers must be cold.

"Aw gee, lolly, that ain't nuttin'. My pof ain't goin' no place at all," was his prompt reply.

There is no condition in life so good that it could not be improved, and none so bad that it might not be worse.

One thing, however, is certain, that we cannot improve a bad condition by living in the shadow and discontent of pessimism.

In these days of "new thought" almost every one admits that what we think about affects what we are.

One of Van Dyke's guide posts on the footpath to peace was to "think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends, and every day of Christ."

If tomorrow you definitely try to think seldom of your troubles and often of the pleasant things that have happened or may happen to you, and to live all day on the sunny slope of your existence, I am pretty sure that the night time will find you in a happier frame of mind than if you had made no such effort.

As perhaps you have heard—

The difference between the optimist And pessimist is this, The optimist sees the doughnut, The pessimist the hole.

LIVE IN SNOW HOUSE MONTH.

Passenger and Crew of Wrecked Liner Tell of Rescue.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 8.—How the crew and passengers of the Alaska Steamship company's steamship Farrallon were saved is told by J. E. Thwaiton, mail clerk of the wrecked liner, in a dispatch from Seward. The Farrallon is a total wreck on a reef near Iluanna bay and five members of the crew are believed to have perished in an attempt to obtain relief for the passengers. The passengers and other members of the crew arrived at Seward aboard the steamer Victoria by which they were rescued February 3, after passing nearly a month encamped in weather frequently 40 degrees below zero.

The Farrallon ran to its doom on January 5, during a snowstorm.

PLEAD GUILTY OF BEING ILLEGAL COMBINE

Twenty-seven Paper Board Corporations Are Fined $2,000 Apiece—

More to Follow.

New York, Feb. 8.—Through their attorney, James M. Beck, former attorney general, 27 of the 39 corporations that compose the Paper Board association entered a plea of guilty to the charge of maintaining an illegal combination in restraint of trade, and Federal Judgeough assessed each one a fine of $2,000, making a total of $54,000.

Assistant District Attorney Wise had collected evidence to show that when the combination was formed the cost of paper board was $21 a ton, and that by 1907 it had been boosted to $39. Even during the hard times it was kept at $30 by judicious shutting down of factories. Since the indictment against the association last December it has fallen to its normal price. But during the four years mentioned, as the indictment stated, an annual tax of $5,000,000 had been levied on the people of the country. The 12 other corporations in the combination are to plead later. The combination controls the paper business from Maine to Virginia and Ohio.

Mr. Ludlow denied that there is a combination of the express companies in violation of the Sherman antitrust law, or that any agreement exists to boost prices. Oral argument will be had by counsel in Washington before the full Interstate commerce commission on April 11.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 8.—Word comes from Hale's Bar, where the big government lock and dam is under construction, that a bloody race war is imminent. Three hundred negroes, armed with rifles, are lined up outside the camp and threatening to exterminate the white workers, of whom there are about 150. Late last night a telephone message was received at the local police headquarters asking for help. A big touring car loaded with officers under command of Capt. Burke left the city for the camp.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Feb. 7.—A George Keylock was driving on Main street Friday afternoon his team became frightened at some calves which were being driven through the street and started to run in a wild pace toward town. Mr. Keylock was thrown from the cutter, but retained the lines and was dragged some distance, but seeing that further attempt to stop the animals was useless he released his hold on the lines and the horses sped on. Charles Spoor was out with his horse and cutter and had stopped to talk a minute with someone and did not see the running team until they were nearly upon him. The street was full of teams on both sides of the road, making it impossible for Mr. Spoor to get out of the way, but he jumped from the cutter just as the runaway struck his rig. The Keylock team plunged directly onto his cutter and struck the horse owned by Mr. Spoor with sufficient force to drive the cutter tongue into its body, inflicting it so seriously that the horse had to be killed. Mr. Keylock was considerably bruised, but not seriously hurt.

MONROE MAY HAVE A CANNING PLANT

Movement Being Started to Get Farmers to Grow Peas

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Monroe, Wis., Feb. 8.—A movement has been started here to interest farmers about Monroe in the growing of peas for a canning plant, which it is proposed will be established here. L. M. Stausbacher, of this city, who had 250 acres of peas near Rice Lake last season, is calling the attention of the farmers to the profits to be realized in pease culture. It is desired that a sufficient number be interested to get at least 700 acres planted the first season. The season is short, the grower making his money in shorter time than he can in growing any other crop. The vines are excellent for feeding of dairy herds.

CHAPTER I.

Two Gentlemen Say Good-By.
"If anything really interesting should happen to me I think I should drop dead," declared Ardmore as he stood talking to Griswold in the railway station at Atlanta. "I entered upon this life under false pretenses, thinking that money would make the game easy, but here I am, 27 years old, stalled at the end of a blind alley, with no light ahead; and to be quite frank, old man, I don't believe you have the advantage of me. What's the matter with us, anyhow?"

"The mistake we make," replied Griswold, "is in failing to seize opportunities when they offer. You and I have talked ourselves hoarse a thousand times planning schemes we never pull off. We are cursed with indecision, that's the trouble with us. We never see the handwriting on the wall, or if we do, it's just a streak of hieroglyphics, and we don't know what it means until we read about it in the newspapers. But I thought you were satisfied with the thrills you got running as a reform candidate for alderman in New York last year. It was a large stage and the limelight struck you pretty often. Didn't you get enough? No doubt they'd be glad to run you again."

Ardmore glanced hastily about and laid his hand heavily on his friend's shoulder.

"Don't mention it—I don't think of it! No more politics in mine. The world may go hang if it waits for me to set it right. What I want is something different, a real adventure—something with spice in it. I have bought everything money can buy, and now I'm looking for something that can't be bought with a price."

"There's your yacht and the open sea," suggested Griswold.

"Sick of it! Sick to death of it!"

"You're different, old man, and mighty hard to please. Why don't you turn explorer and go in for the south pole?"

"Perfectly bully! I've thought of it a lot, but I want to be sure I've cleaned up everything else first. It's always up there waiting—on ice, so to speak—but when it's done once there will be nothing left. I want to save that for the last call."

"You said about the same thing when we talked of Thibet that first evening we met at the University club, and now the Grand Lama sings in all the phonographs, and for a penny you can see him in a kinescope, eating his luncheon. I remember very well that night. We were facing each other at a writing-table, and you looked up timidly from your letter and asked me whether there were two g's in aggravated, and I answered that it depended on the meaning—one g for a mild case, two for a severe one—and you laughed and we began talking. Then we found out how lonesome we both were, and you asked me to dinner, and then took me to that big house of yours up there in Fifth avenue and showed me the pictures in your art gallery, and we found out that we needed each other."

"Yes, I had need of you all right!" And Ardmore sniffed dolefully, and complained of the smoke that was drifting in upon them from the train sheds. "I wish you wouldn't always be leaving me. You ought to give up your job and amuse me. You're the only chap I know who doesn't talk horse or automobile or yacht, or who doesn't want to spend whole evenings discussing champagne vintages; but you're too good a man to be wasted on a college professorship."

the to appear as best girl at a church wedding. Thus wireless communication is established between soul and soul for an instant only, and then you are cut off forever. Perhaps, in the next world, Ardy."

Griswold and Ardmore had often idealized themselves as hopeless purveyors of the elusive, the unattainable, the impossible; or at least Ardmore had, and Griswold had entered into the spirit of this sort of thing for the joy it gave Ardmore. They had discussed frequently the call of soul to soul—the quick glance passing between perfect strangers in crowded thoroughfares, and had fruitlessly speculated as to their proper course in the event the call seemed imperative. A glance of the eye is one thing, but it is quite another to address a stranger and offer eternal friendship. The two had agreed that, while, soul-call or no soul-call, a gentleman must keep clear of steamer flirtations and avoid even the most casual remarks to strange young women. In any circumstances, a gentleman of breeding and character may nevertheless follow the world's long trails in search of a never-to-be-forgotten face.

The fact is that Ardmore was exceedingly shy, and a considerable experience of fashionable society had not diminished this shortcoming. Griswold, on the other hand, had the Virginian's natural social instinct, but he suffered from a widely-diffused impression that much learning had made him either indifferent or extremely critical where women are concerned.

Ardmore shrugged his shoulders and fumbled in his coat pockets as though searching for ideas. An austere composure marked his countenance at all times, and emphasized the real distinction of his clean-cut features. His way of tilting back his head and staring dreamily into vacancy had established for him a reputation for stupidity that was wholly undeserved.

"Please limit the discussion to the present world, professor."

When Ardmore was displeased with Griswold he called him professor, in a withering tone that disposed of the academic life.

"We shall limit it to New Orleans or the universe, as you like."

"I'm disappointed in you, Grisby. You don't take this matter in the proper spirit. I'm going to find that girl, I tell you."

"And you glanced carelessly in the opposite direction and pulled down your shade, of course, like the well-bred man you are—" interrupted Griswold, holding fast to Ardmore's arm as they walked down the platform. "I did no such thing. I looked at her and she looked at me. And then my train started."

"Well, trains have a way of starting. Does the romance end here?"

"Then, just at the last moment, she winked at me!"

"It was a clidor, Ardy. The use of soft coal on railways is one of the saddest facts of American transportation. I need hardly remind you, Mr. Ardmore, that nice girls don't wink at strange young men. It isn't done!"

"I would have you know, professor, that this girl is a lady."

"Don't be an irritible, and let me summarize briefly on your own hypothesis: You stared at a strange girl and she winked at you, safe in the consciousness that she would never see you again. And now you are going to New Orleans to look for her. She will probably meet you at the station, with her bridesmaids and wedding cake all ready for you. And you think this will lead to an adventure—you defer finding the pole for this—for this? Poor Ardy! But did she toss her card from the window? Why New Orleans? Why not Minneapolis, or Bangor, Me.?"

"It's not an ass, Grisby. I caught the name of the sleeper—you know they're all named, like yachts and tall buildings—the name of her car was the Alexandra. I asked our conductor where it was bound for, and he said it was the New Orleans car. So I took the first train back, ran into you here, and that's the whole story to date."

"I admire your spirit. New Orleans is much pleasanter than the polar ice, and a girl with a winking eye isn't to be overlooked in this vale of tears. What did this alleviating balm for tired eyes look like, if you remember anything besides the wicked winks?"

"She was bareheaded, and her hair was wonderfully light and fluffy, and it was parted in the middle and tied behind with a black ribbon in a great bow. She rested her cheek on her hand—her elbow on the window-sill, you know—and she smiled a little as the car moved off, and winked—do you understand? Her eyes were blue, Grisby, big and blue—and she was perfectly stunning."

"There are winks and winks, Ardy," observed Griswold with a judicial air.

"There is the wink inadvertent, to which no meaning can be attached. There is the wink deceptive, usually given behind the back of a third person, and a vulgar thing which we will not associate with your girl of the Alexandra. And then, to be brief, there is the wink of mischief, which is observed occasionally in persons of exceptional bring up. There are moments in the lives of all of us when we lose our grip on conventions—on morality, even. The psychology of this matter is very subtle. Here you are, a gentleman of masterly correct life; here is a delightful girl, on whom you flushed in an out-of-the-way corner of the world. And she, not wholly displeased by the frank admiration in your eyes—for you may as well concede that you stared at her!"

"Well, I suppose I did look at her," admitted Ardmore, reluctantly.

"Pardonably, no doubt, just as you would look at a portrait in a picture gallery, of course. This boarding-school miss, who had never before lapsed from absolute propriety, felt the conventional world crumble beneath her as the train started. She could no more have resisted the temptation to wink than she could have refused a caramal or an invita-

BEARS HAMMER STOCKS; MARKET IS DEMORALIZED

Introduction of Incorporation Act Accepted as Excuse for Slump—Transactions Enormous.

New York, Feb. 8.—Stocks were hammered most relentlessly by the bears from the opening until the close and there was but little effort put forth to allay the slaughter. The market bordered upon demoralization throughout the entire trading.

As usual the bears concentrated their attacks upon United States Steel common. The stock was thrown over in large blocks by the public until it was driven down to 75 3/8. The transactions were enormous.

There were many explanations of the market's weakness, but the popular theory was that the big men are seeking to impress the public with their disappointment of President Taft's corporation policies. The introduction of the federal incorporation bill in both houses of congress was a generally accepted excuse for the market raid. The feature of the bill which frightened Wall street most was that which prohibits new issues of stock unless there is full value behind them. Wall street fears that this will prevent the building of new railroads and the launching of new industrial enterprises where it has been the practice to give a bonus in stock to the promoters.

There was an especially vigorous attack on the copper stocks. The explanation given was that the proposed copper merger will be impossible under the clause of the new bill which says that no stock with a par value may be issued in payment of property purchased or acquired by the corporation to an amount in par value exceeding the value approved by the commissioners after such appraisement.

Anacostia stock was driven down from 49 1/2 to 46, the lowest price at which it has sold in months. Anadarko broke from 70 1/2 to 71 1/2.

Union Pacific fell 5 points, Reading 4, Southern Pacific 6, Chesapeake & Ohio 4, and New York Central 2.

Despite the big declines there were no report of stock exchange houses in trouble and leading bankers said that there were no signs of any approaching crash. On the contrary, they declared that the financial situation was showing a steady improvement as a result of the heavy liquidation.

With the winking eye

And Griswold hummed the words, holding time with his stick, much to Ardmore's annoyance.

"In my ignorance," Griswold continued, "I recall but one allusion to the wink in immortal song. If my memory serves me, it is no less a soul than Browning who sings:

"All heaven, meanwhile, condemned into one eye
Which fears to lose the wonder, should it wink."

You seem worried, Ardy. Does the wink press so heavily, or what's the matter?"

"The fact is, I'm in trouble. My sister says I've got to marry."

"Which sister?"

"Mrs. Atchison. You know Nellie?

She's a nice girl and she's a good sister to me, but she's running me too hard on this marrying business. She's going to bring a bunch of girls down to Ardley in a few days, and also says she'll stay until I make a choice."

Griswold whistled.

"When, as we say in literary circles, you're up against it. Nu wonder you're beginning to take notice of the frolicsome boarding-school girl who winks at the world, believe I'd rather take chances myself with that amiable sort than marry into your Newport, Connecticut set."
